The exports of non-oil commodities from the central Iranian province of Markazi reached $186.38 million during the first four months of the current fiscal (March 20-July 21), a senior official said.

"Markazi exported goods to 70 countries during the period, including Afghanistan, Iraq, Turkey, the UAE, Azerbaijan and Pakistan," Saeed Farrokhi, Markazi province's deputy governor for economic affairs said. Exports mainly included hydrocarbons, linear low-density polyethylene, polypropylene, high-density polyethylene, glass, crystalware fruit juice and potato chips, he added.

According to the official, Markazi province's imports during the four months under review amounted to $93 million.

China, Turkey, the UAE, India and Taiwan were on top of the list of 42 exporters to the Iranian province during the four-month span, Farrokhi noted.

Markazi province, consisting of 12 counties and home to 1.41 million people, is one of Iran's major industrial and agricultural hubs.

The province's exports topped 1.8 million tons with a value of $977.6 million during the past fiscal year (ended March 19) to witness an 18% increase in terms of volume and a 4% decline in terms of value year-on-year.

Buying a property in Turkey has no economic justification; official

"The coronavirus outbreak has affected Iran's trade with Turkey as Iran's exports have declined by 90 percent," the chairman of Iran-Turkey Joint Chamber of Commerce told ILNA. Mehrdad Saadat said in an exclusive interview with ILNA news agency that unfortunately, this pandemic reduced Iran's exports to Turkey and there is no other reason for such drop. Referring to the reopening of the borders between two countries, he added "fortunately after reopening of the borders trade between the two countries has been increasing and the traders are trying to compensate for the four-month drop in the bilateral trade." "We are currently witnessing long lines for trucks that are waiting for entering Turkey." The Iranian official said that talks with Turkey are underway to ask them to increase working hours of their border checkpoints in order to accelerate the arrival of trucks into Turkey. He pointed to the main task of the chamber and confirmed that Iran-Turkey Joint Chamber of Commerce must attract investment in Iran, adding that the housing sector in Turkey in the past 15 years has been an alluring market which has had 35 percent profit and comparing to Iran it has no economic justification.

Calling his Turkish counterpart Recep Tayyip Erdogan on Friday, Iran's President Hassan Rouhani congratulated Eid al-Adha and expressed hope that the two countries could make effective efforts to control the Coronavirus through cooperation and exchange of experience. Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan for his part congratulated Eid al-Adha and expressed hope that it would be a blessing for the people of the two countries and for all Muslims around the world. Appreciating successful efforts of the Iranian nation and government in the fight against the coronavirus, Erdogan stressed the expansion of cooperation and experience exchange in the path. Iran's trade with Turkey totaled $803.59 million during the first five months of 2020 (January-May) to register a decrease of 77.62% compared with the corresponding months of 2019, data released by Turkish Statistical Institutes show.

Iran exported $331.67 million worth of goods to Turkey during the five months under review, to see an 87.1% year-on-year drop.

Increasing border relations guarantees economic security

Iranian Foreign Ministry Spokesman Abbas Mousavi said that increasing border relations and developing economic cooperation will contribute to the region's economic security. He made the remarks on Friday evening on the sidelines of his visit to the Astar Port Special Economic Zone. Emphasizing the importance of expanding economic cooperation with neighbors, especially the friendly and neighboring country of the Republic of Azerbaijan, Mousavi said, "Foreign Ministry has a special focus on expanding cooperation with neighboring countries." "The increasing border relations and developing economic cooperation will contribute to the region's economic security," he added. "Astar enjoys three borders of rail, land and sea, and the implementation of the Astar-Rasht railway is also high on the agenda of the officials," he said. Mousavi stressed the need for implementing Astar railway wharf project in the vicinity of Azerbaijan Republic, saying, "In the near future, as the Ambassador of the Islamic Republic of Iran to the Republic of Azerbaijan, I will consult with the officials of the neighboring state regarding this project."

Iran, Azerbaijan Discuss Railroad Connection

The presidents of Iran and the Republic of Azerbaijan stressed the need for the immediate completion of a project on connecting the railroad networks of the two neighbors.

In a telephone conversation on Friday, Iranian President Hassan Rouhani and his Azeri counterpart Ilham Aliyev called for efforts to carry out the agreement on a railroad project connecting Iran's Rasht to the border city of Astara in Azerbaijan. In the conversation, Rouhani also expressed Iran's readiness to share its experiences and promote cooperation with the Republic of Azerbaijan in the fight against the coronavirus pandemic. He further stressed the need to maintain trade exchanges between the two Muslim neighbors in compliance with the health protocols. Aliyev, for his part, hailed the positive trend in the bilateral relations with Iran, saying Baku and Tehran will certainly take steps in broadening ties in the coming months.

"The Rasht-Astara railroad project is highly significant for the Republic of Azerbaijan, and we will try to remove the obstacles and problems to complete the project immediately," the Azeri leader added. The budget for completion of Rasht-Astara railroad project is estimated at $1.1 billion, part of which has been supplied by the $500 million loan from Azeri banks.

When finished, the Rasht-Astara section will connect the rail networks of Iran and Azerbaijan through the border city of Astara. The entire project constitutes part of the north-south corridor. The International North-South Transport Corridor (INSTC) is a multipurpose route for the transit of goods between Iran, Russia, Europe, India and Central Asia via shipping lines, railroad and land routes.

MP urges govt. not to be shaken if arms embargo extended

Chairman of Iranian Parliament National Security and Foreign Policy Commission said that government should not be shaken if Iran's arms embargo is extended at the UN Security Council. Speaking in an interview with Mehr news agency on Sat, Mojtaba Zonnour added, "government of the Islamic Republic of Iran should announce what measures it will take in case Iran's arms embargo is extended at UN Security Council."

In response to a question that what measures the government should take for the prevention of extension of Iran's arms embargo, he stated, "if Iran's arms embargo is extended in UNSC, it must show perseverance and endurance against enemies and the government should not deal with the issue from a position of hesitation and weakness."

He further pointed out that the government should not deal with the issue from the position of weakness, rather, it should stand firmly against audacity and deviation that the enemy wants to create seriously.

Elsewhere in his remarks, Zonnour emphasized, "the government must put extensive diplomacy on its agenda against extension of arms embargo and raise the legitimacy of the Islamic Republic of Iran and invalidity of demands of other sides in the world seriously."

The government should activate its political diplomacy in this field and also influence members of the UN Security Council as well as other decision-making countries on this issue, he reiterated.

When enemies of the Islamic Republic of Iran examine the benefit and cost which will be inflicted on themselves, they will certainly not dare to make such an attack, so that the government should put this issue into serious consideration, Zonnour emphasized.

U.S. proposes house arrest for 'most dreaded' Taliban prisoners

The United States has proposed that hundreds of Taliban prisoners be transferred to house arrest in a supervised facility when they are freed from Afghan jails, three senior official sources said, a proposed solution for a deadlock that is holding up peace talks.

The proposal for Taliban fighters accused of conducting some of the bloodiest attacks in Afghanistan to be placed in a location where they would be under both

Taliban and Afghan government surveillance was presented this week to the warring Afghan sides by top U.S. diplomats, the sources said. The diplomats are trying to kickstart peace negotiations in Doha that have been delayed over the prisoner issue. The Afghan government is resisting freeing the final batch out of some 5,000 prisoners whose release was demanded by the insurgent group as a condition to start peace talks. U.S. Special Envoy Zalmay Khalilzad pressed Taliban leaders and President Ashraf Ghani to break the deadlock during a visit to Kabul this week. Around 400 prisoners are still in government custody, with Western allies also expressing concerns over releasing around half of those. "The Americans and their allies agree that it would be insane to let some of the most dreaded Taliban fighters walk out freely... the Afghan forces arrested them for conducting some of the most heinous crimes against humanity," said a senior western diplomat in Kabul. Khalilzad's office was not immediately available for comment on the proposals. A spokesman for Ghani declined to comment. The State Department referred Reuters to a statement it released after Khalilzad's visit, which said he had pressed for "ongoing efforts to resolve the remaining issues ahead of intra-Afghan negotiations", including the prisoner release, but did not detail any proposals. Of the 400 prisoners left, around 200 are accused by the Afghan government of masterminding attacks on embassies, public squares, and government offices, killing thousands of civilians in recent years and including a huge 2017 blast targeting the German Embassy in Kabul. Two Taliban sources and one former senior Afghan official said senior members of the militant Haqqani Network, which has ties to the Taliban, are also among the group. On Friday, Ghani ordered the release of 500 Taliban prisoners who are not part of the group's list. However the two Taliban and two diplomatic sources said the insurgent group was insistent on its demand for the release of the remaining 400 prisoners on the list.

UAE to Turkey: Stop Meddling in Arab Affairs over Libya

The United Arab Emirates minister of state for foreign affairs said on Saturday that Turkey should stop interfering in Arab affairs, criticizing comments on Libya made by Turkey's defense minister.

"Relations are not managed by threats and there is no place for colonialist delusions in this day and age," Anwar Gargash wrote on Twitter. Turkish media had reported the Turkish minister making remarks critical of the UAE's actions over Libya. The UAE, alongside Egypt and Russia, backs eastern Libya commander Khalifa Haftar, whose militants have been battling the forces of the internationally recognized government in Tripoli. Turkey has stepped up support for the Tripoli government.

Chinese media: IRGC drill's message; US forces under Iran missile range

A Chinese media outlet pointed to the power and deterrence of the Iranian missiles, saying that the US should understand the message of the recent drill by the IRGC.

China Radio International published a report on Friday night with the title "the message of IRGC's Payambar Azam 14 drill to America: You are under range of Iranian missiles", after the conclusion of military drill by IRGC in the south of the country.

"A significant point of the drill was that IRGC destroyed a mock-up of US' Nimitz-class carriers with its missiles in the area of the war game," noted the report.

"Iran has actually welcomed the US' Nimitz-class carrier [that is entering the region] with launching missiles at its mock-up. There is no doubt that with the measure, Iran is trying to display its firm determination in defending its rights and standing against the enemy."

It went on to note that IRGC "proved" the accuracy of its precision missiles during the drill, adding that Iran has the "most powerful missile power" of the region and equipped with different mid-range and long-range missiles.

It also referred to the establishment of military bases by the United States around Iran, noting that all of them are under the range of the Iranian missiles.

"One should never neglect the real message of Iran that was trying to transmit it to the US Army via the drill," concluded the report.

The final stage of Payambar-e Azam 14 military drill wrapped up on Friday. The war game was jointly carried out by IRGC's Navy and Aerospace forces in the south of the country, near Strait of Hormuz. IRGC also unveiled a new achievement in the drill namely the launching of ballistic missiles from the underground without the ordinary platforms for the first time in the world.

IRGC new missile achievement can be used across Iran: MP

A member of Parliament National Security and Foreign Policy Commission hailed the new achievement of the IRGC in launching ballistic missiles from underground, noting that this capability can be used across the country. Ebrahim Azizi said on Friday that the achievement is based on the defense doctrine of the Islamic Republic which highlights "authoritative and active deterrence". "Ballistic missiles are now launched from underground and can arm large sections of the country without the need for any missile platform or other equipment on surface," he said.

IRGC successfully test-fired a ballistic missile from underground on Wednesday during the Payambar-e Azam 14 military drill in southern regions of the country. IRGC Aerospace Force Brigadier General Amir Ali Hajizadeh said then that "The missiles were launched without any launch platforms or other usual utilities."

"These missiles burst out of the ground to hit the set targets," he added. Also in a tweet, the brigadier general said that the name and features of this type of missiles would be kept confidential.

US Wants to Sign Nuclear Non-Proliferation Agreement with Russia, Trump Says

The United States is working on signing a new nuclear non-proliferation agreement with Russia, US President Donald Trump said.

"We are working with Russia right now on a non-proliferation agreement, nuclear non-proliferation. If we get something like that, it would be great," the US president said on Friday, during a COVID-19 Response and Storm Preparedness roundtable in Florida, TASS reported.

Trump provided no further details about the agreement. Russia and the United States held consultations on arms control and disarmament in July. Those meetings focused primarily on the fate of the bilateral New START treaty. The Treaty between the United States of America and the Russian Federation on Measures for the Further Reduction and Limitation of Strategic Offensive Arms (the New START Treaty) entered into force on February 5, 2011. The deal stipulates that seven years after it goes into effect, each party should have no more than a total of 700 deployed intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs), submarine-launched ballistic missiles (SLBMs) and strategic bombers, as well as no more than 1,550 warheads on deployed ICBMs, deployed SLBMs and strategic bombers, and a total of 800 deployed and non-deployed missile launchers.

The document will remain in force for 10 years, until February 5, 2021, unless it is replaced before that date by a subsequent agreement on the reduction and limitation of strategic offensive arms. It can also be extended for no longer than 5 years (that is, until 2026) by the parties' mutual consent. Moscow has repeatedly called on Washington not to delay prolongation of the treaty it describes as a golden standard in the area of disarmament. Russian President Vladimir Putin said in an interview with the Financial Times in June that if this treaty ceased to exist there would be no other tools in the world containing the arms race.

IRGC achievements, clear example of relying on domestic power

A parliament member hailed that IRGC's performance in various fields as a clear example of relying on internal power and making progress without the help of any western countries.

"The Supreme Leader, in his speech, announced that the IRGC's staff are among the best in the fields of maritime Scientific advances, construction of refineries and machines, etc", Hadi Beiginejad referred to the Supreme Leader's remarks in his yesterday's speech that he said "For a long time, an idea has been propagated that Iran cannot progress without the United States and the West", adding that some claim that Iran cannot progress without the West. "The Supreme Leader, in his speech, announced that the IRGC's staff are among the best in the fields of maritime Scientific advances, construction of refineries and machines, etc", he added.

He went on to say that not only the western countries did not help the Islamic Republic at all, but also they imposed sanctions and called the IRGC a terrorist group and slandered it. But the IRGC grew day by day. According to the leader's remarks, a clear example that Iran is relying on internal power and improving is the performance of the IRGC, he said and added that Supreme Leader named the Persian Gulf Star Refinery, built by the IRGC, to refute the propagandas.

Afghan President Orders Release of 500 Taliban Inmates

Afghan President Ashraf Ghani ordered the release of 500 Taliban prisoners as part of a new ceasefire that could lead into long-delayed peace talks. Ghani said on Friday they would be freed during the Eid Al-Adha holiday, which started Friday and has prompted a national cease-fire for three days, Reuters reported.

The release would reportedly complete the government's pledge to free 5,000 Taliban members as outlined in a deal the fighters signed with

Washington, he said. "To show goodwill and accelerate the peace talks, we will release 500 Taliban prisoners in response to the group's three-day cease-fire announcement," Ghani said in an Eid speech.

However, the 500 inmates are not on the original list of 5,000 demanded by the Taliban. Kabul authorities have already released 4,600 of those prisoners but are hesitating about the release of the final 400, deeming them too dangerous. "I do not have the right to decide on the release of those 400 Taliban prisoners who are accused of serious crimes," Ghani said, adding that a gathering of Afghan elders would decide their fate. The Taliban, who have insisted on the release of those 400, did not immediately comment.

The so-called US-Taliban accord signed in February stipulated Kabul would release 5,000 insurgents in return for 1,000 government forces held captive by the group. Late Thursday, the Taliban said they had completed the release of all 1,000 government prisoners. The contentious prisoner swap is a key precondition for peace talks. Both Ghani and the Taliban signaled this week they were ready for talks after Eid, provided the prisoner swap is complete.

Religious Congregations Council: Muharram rituals to observe COVID-19 Task Force guidelines

The Council of Iranian Religious Congregations has urged the nation to follow the guidelines of the National Task Force for Fighting Coronavirus in holding mourning ceremonies during the upcoming Islamic month of Muharram. In a statement on Saturday, the council announced all religious ceremonies and gatherings should meet the criteria outlined by the experts at National Task Force for Fighting Coronavirus. All congregations without the coordination of the Task Force are banned, it added. The statement comes after the Leader of the Islamic Revolution Ayatollah Seyyed Ali Khamenei urged people on Friday to observe health protocols during the Muharram mourning ceremonies. "All the mourners, mourning gatherings and eulogists must follow what is announced by the National Task Force for Fighting Coronavirus, because it is a very important issue," the Leader asserted. He added, "What is announced by the National Task Force for Fighting Coronavirus must be followed during mourning. I will respect what they announce as necessary. I advise all the mourners, mourning gatherings and eulogists to respect guidelines of the National Task Force for Fighting Coronavirus, otherwise, there will be a big disaster." Muharram is the month of the martyrdom of Imam Hussein (PBUH) - the third Shia Imam - and his loyal companions at the Battle of Karbala in the year 61 AH (680 CE). During the Muharram rituals, millions of Muslims commemorate the martyrdom anniversary of Imam Hussein, by gathering in mosques and different religious venues.

تست کرونا در منزل توسط استارت آپ ها، ممنوع!

ملی مبارزه با ویروس کرونا مجاز نمی باشد. در مورد سایر فعالیت های کسب و کارها موظفند ضمن اخذ مجوزهای خدمات بالینی در منزل به صورت مستقیم یا به صورت قراردادی با مراکز دارای مجوز به طور شفاف تمامی ارتباطات خود با هر آزمایشگاه را مشخص و در اختیار کاربران قرار دهند. همچنین این کسب و کارها موظفند تا ضمن رعایت پروتکل های محرمانگی داده های سلامت طبق استانداردهای مرکز مدیریت آمار و فناوری اطلاعات وزارت بهداشت، درمان و آموزش پزشکی، قراردادهای تعرفه ها و نحوه همکاری با مراکز آزمایشگاهی و سایر اطلاعات بیماران این خدمت را در صورت نیاز به مراجع ذیصلاح ارائه نمایند.

وزارت بهداشت در پایان این ایلغیه تاکید کرده در صورت عدم حذف سرویس های مرتبط و عدم توجه و اهتمام به موارد فوق مراتب به مراجع ذیصلاح جهت پیگیری حقوقی ارجاع داده خواهد شد.

انجام تست و نمونه گیری در منزل تنها از سوی مراکز خدمات پرستاری و درمان در منزل تایید شده از سوی وزارت بهداشت، مجاز است. به عبارت دیگر اگر فردی قادر به مراجعه به آزمایشگاه نباشد، مراکز خدمات پرستاری با آزمایشگاه طرف قرارداد خود تماس می گیرند و کارشناس آزمایشگاه همراه با تجهیزات برای اخذ نمونه به منزل بیمار مراجعه کرده و نمونه اخذ شده را در محیط نگهدارنده استاندارد به آزمایشگاه منتقل می کنند.

از زمانی که این نامه در شبکه های اجتماعی منتشر شد، واکنش منفی کاربران را به همراه داشت چرا که عده بسیاری اعتقاد داشتند حضور در مراکز آزمایشی می تواند خود باعث انتقال ویروس به آن ها شود. در هر صورت دلیل تصمیم جدید وزارت بهداشت هنوز مشخص نیست.

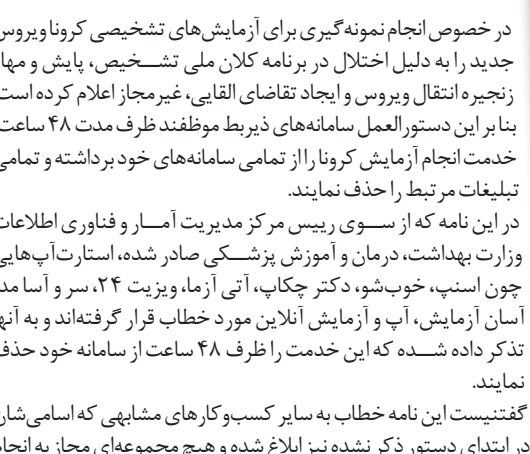

در خصوص انجام نمونه گیری برای آزمایش های تشخیصی کرونا ویروس جدید را به دلیل اختلال در برنامه کلان ملی تشخیص، پایش و مهار و زنجیره انتقال ویروس و ایجاد تقاضای القایی، غیر مجاز اعلام کرده است. بنا بر این دستورالعمل سامانه های ذی ربط موظفند ظرف مدت ۴۸ ساعت، خدمات انجام آزمایش کرونا را از تمامی سامانه های خود برداشته و تمامی تبلیغات مرتبط را حذف نمایند.

در این نامه که از سوی رییس مرکز مدیریت آمار و فناوری اطلاعات وزارت بهداشت، درمان و آموزش پزشکی صادر شده، استارت آپ هایی چون اسنپ، خوب شو، دکتر چکاپ، آتی آزما، ویزیت ۲۴، سر و آسا مد، آسان آزمایش، آپ و آزمایش آنلاین مورد خطاب قرار گرفته اند و به آنها تذکر داده شده که این خدمت را ظرف ۴۸ ساعت از سامانه خود حذف نمایند.

گفتنیست این نامه خطاب به سایر کسب و کارهای مشابهی که اسامی شان در ابتدای دستور ذکر نشده نیز ابلاغ شده و هیچ مجموعه ای مجاز به انجام تست کرونا در منزل نیست.

در نامه وزارت بهداشت دلایلی که تست کرونا در منزل مجاز نیست به شرح ذیل ذکر شده است:

۱- فعالیت تبلیغاتی کسب و کارها به جهت نمونه گیری در منزل و هر محلی خارج از مراکز منتخب و آزمایشگاه های مورد تأیید وزارت بهداشت در خصوص کرونا ویروس جدید و پیشنهاد مستقیم آزمایش به بیماران و مردم مصادیق ایجاد اختلال در برنامه کلان ملی تشخیص، پایش و مهار زنجیره انتقال ویروس و ایجاد تقاضای القایی می باشد که در شرایط خاص و بحرانی فعلی و با توجه به سیاست های ستاد

«تست کرونا در منزل»، خدماتی بود که تا دیروز در بسیاری از استارت آپ های حوزه سلامت ارائه می شد ولی به نظر می رسد با بخشنامه جدیدی که وزارت بهداشت خطاب به برخی از این مجموعه ها منتشر ساخته، کاربران دیگر نتوانند از این ویژگی استفاده نمایند. وزارت بهداشت در نامه و آموزش پزشکی هرگونه تبلیغ
